Is a Wilkes University degree a sound investment of your money and time? We know it is. It's proven to us every day through our 20,000 successful alumni. It's proven to the future employers when they see the experience our graduates have with the latest equipment.

Wilkes University has received a $3,000 "Diversity and Democracy" grant from the American Association of Colleges and Universities which will be utilized, with the help of a matching amount from Wilkes, to present a series of caucuses addressing three important local issues. The grant is one of only 20 awarded nationally and one of three awarded in Pennsylvania. The concept of the series, entitled "The Community Voices Caucus," originated in response to

The grant is one of only 20 awarded nationally and one of three awarded in Pennsylvania. The concept of the series, entitled "The Community Voices Caucus," originated in response to increasing concerns about community issues and as an acknowledgement of higher education's role in the future of the city of Wilkes-Barre. The caucuses will bring together diverse groups of individuals in an effort to problem-solve in a non-partisan, non-political setting.
